

Appendices: Optional This section is for supplementary, informational, and/or illustrative material which supports your research but is not essential for an understanding of the text. The Appendix (or appendices) should be the final section(s) of your thesis. Each appendix subsection or chapter should be designated A, B, C, etc. (If only one, use Appendix not Appendix A.) Each appendix subsection or chapter must have a title and must be listed in the Table of Contents. You may choose to add a separate display page before each appendix, with the appendix designation, title, and page number (which is listed in the Table of Contents).

This is an example of appendices as multiple chapters.

Appendix A: Title

Ei pro commodo dolorem mediocritatem. Modo impedit urbanitas te vis, ad harum tincidunt ius, an dico movet ius. Est vulputate sadi verear erroribus expetendis, augue oportere nam no. Falli verterem ea, at delenit deserunt pri, ne cum quem illum inenegebat.

For headings, use the same university approved font as your body text, not larger than 20-points. The body text should be one of the 11- or 12-point university approved fonts. Double-space the text. Be consistent in style (font choice, size, and headings, body) throughout.

The appendices may be single or double spaced, but be consistent in style throughout.

At offendit contentiones comprehensam mea. Ex pro exerci partem adipiscing. Te mel nominavi principes scriptorem, ex vel luptatum urbanitas percipitur.

Table A1: User Data for the Major and Sub-Collections for June 1, 2021-May 16, 2022

Tables and figures in the appendices should be included in the Lists of Tables or Lists of Figures. Use "A#" to note that the referenced table / figure is in the Appendices.
