Historical Summary

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) is a group of college and university-based officer training programs for training commissioned officers of the United States Armed Forces. Ouachita's ROTC was organized circa 1944.

Scope and Contents and Arrangement

Newspaper clippings, programs, cadet handbooks, photographs, and ephemera from activities and individuals involved as students and commanders in the OBU ROTC program. Includes information on Rangers and veterans. These records are arranged in chronological order. Items in Fs 1-13 may have been removed from a scrapbook. F 16, labeled "Academic Affairs," may have been removed from another University Record Group. Newspaper clippings have been copied onto acid-free paper for preservation.
